SIMON WIESENTHAL CENTER SOCIAL ACTION

Coronavirus has unfortunately led to a serious spike in anti-Semitic activity on social media and is impacting on local Jewish communities. We must remember that immediately prior to the pandemic residents from the Tri-State area marched across the Brooklyn Bridge and through the streets of the City to express our outrage against double digit increases in felony-level hate crimes against Jews. Clearly, we MUST remain vigilant in these times of crisis. The Simon Wiesenthal Center dedicated experts and researchers are working around the clock to finding, exposing, and combatting anti-Semitism and hate. We cannot afford to allow such hate to go unchallenged.

We have to rely on scientists to find a vaccine against the newest deadly virus. But working together we can defend ourselves against history's oldest virus---anti-Semitism. Please partner with the SWC by reporting anti - Semitic or other coronavirus-related hate activity online or impacting your community by contacting the Simon Wiesenthal Center at SWCNY@Wiesenthal.com.

For updates on breaking developments every day please follow the Simon Wiesenthal Center at Facebook: facebook.com/simonwiesenthalcenter/
